TRAFALGAR DAY.

Lord Nelson's Victory is Commemorated at the British Capital.
LONDON, Oct. 21.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Lord Nelson's victory over the combined French and Spanish fleets on October 21, 1801, was celebrated at Trafalgar Square today with more than usual ardor. As the effect of the victory was to frustrate the plan of Napoleon to invade England with 200,000 men, the observance of the anniversary engagement has been regarded, particularly in France, as likely to take the character of a demonstration calculated to excite the enthusiasm of the French people. The Nelson monument today was literally entwined with flowers from base to summit. A wreath which attracted particular attention was inscribed: "From the Daughters and Grandson of a Midshipman Aboard the Neptune at the Battle of Trafalgar."

ILLINOIS DAY.

Canton's Streets Full of Delegations.

McKinley Reviews the Parade and Addresses Them.

Every Sentiment of His Speech Finds Responsive Chords.

Garfield's Son and Other Notable Men of the Buckeye State Call on the Leader—Workingmen from Chicago—Clevelanders.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.
CANTON, Oct. 21.—This was Illinois day at the home of the Republican Presidential candidate, but a number of other visits of note were made. All day long the streets have been filled with marching clubs, and the air with the music of bands. The Illinois people began arriving early, and they were still arriving at noon. In the afternoon a parade was made in which local bands and local escorts joined, the day being bright and pleasant. Maj. McKinley reviewed the parade from the stand on the front of his lawn, and when it had passed the marchers counted to mass around the stand for the speech-making. Four addresses were made on behalf of the visitors. Gen. John McNulta spoke on behalf of Chicago; Hon. J. W. Calhoun for the State of Illinois; R. C. Givens for the Republicans, and P. J. F. Minter for the representatives of the labor organizations of Chicago and vicinity.

The Black Hussars brought with them their splendid black mounts, including "Midnight," the fine steed Maj. McKinley rode on the occasion of the opening of the World's Fair. The Illinois people gave Maj. McKinley an ovation when he appeared to address them, and they applauded every sentiment of his speech. Before the Illinois people reached the house there had been a visit of the people of Poland township, Trumbull county, O., where Maj. McKinley spent many of his boyhood days, with Judge Arrel of Youngstown, his old room-mate, as spokesman. There had also been the Garfield Club of the Nineteenth Ohio Congress District, which Gen. Garfield had represented in Congress. With this party came Capt. William Wallace of Warren, lieutenant-governor of Ohio; State Senator James R. Garfield, son of the late President, and Congressman Stephen A. Northway, who delivered the introductory address. Senator Garfield was introduced by Maj. McKinley when he had concluded his address, and the Senator spoke briefly. As the major was leaving the platform, after speaking to the Illinois people, another delegation, coming from Green Spring, O., and vicinity, appeared, and an address was made to them.

An address was made in the house to a delegation of workmen from Chicago, and soon afterward a splendidly-uniformed club, organized as the East End McKinley Regiment of Cleveland, with officers mounted, appeared upon the lawn with F. O. Hogan as spokesman. This delegation was composed of seven companies of sixty men each, and presented a particularly handsome appearance. Maj. McKinley scarcely had time to get dinner ere there was another delegation in his ward. This last one was the McKinley Marching Club of Massillon, with torches and natty uniforms. They were addressed by the major, and they joined in the street parade.

In the course of his address to the Garfield Club from the Nineteenth Congress District of Ohio, Maj. McKinley said:

"I have studied, more or less, the public career of Gen. Garfield. He was an inspiration to me as a boy; he was my counselor and friend in manhood, and in studying his career, it was to me to distinguish him from any other, I would name his splendid defense of the public honor and national currency. To my mind the greatest speech he ever made, for I heard it, was in the Forty-fifth Congress, when he was seeking to prevent the abandonment of the idea of the resumption of specie payments. He was then occupying a perilous ground. There was a great clamor in the country over an inflation of the currency. Gen. Garfield, fearing no consequences from his act, and knowing that he was right, laid before the country the question of the obligation of the national government equal to the best dollars known to the commercial world. He took the chances of an adverse verdict."

"He came back to his constituency, and it returned him by its increased majority. He then appealed to that wider field—the great State—and it commended him by electing him to the United States Senate. Then finally he received the approval of fifty millions of people in his election to be the chief executive of the United States. So, too, on that other great question of the tariff he was sound. You will remember his famous speech against the Wood bill, seeking to tear down and destroy American industries. He said, in substance: 'Let Germany look after her interests of the German empire; let England look after her welfare, but let the American people legislate for themselves.'"

ANOTHER CASE OF "NIGGER ON THE SAFETY VALVE."

And the pressure is rising mightily ast.

States. He would tell us to protect American laws and not development against the competition of the old world, and that is what we propose to do this year."

In his address to the combined delegations from Illinois, Maj. McKinley dwelt at length on the great resources of the State of Illinois and the wonderful achievements of its people. He spoke eloquently of Lincoln, Grant, Logan, Oglesby and Tanner as names linked with the history of the State. Maj. McKinley received a number of representatives of the labor organizations of Illinois in his study. Responding to the introductory address of M. H. Madden of the Printers' Union, and P. J. Minter, president of the Bricklayers' Union, Maj. McKinley said in part:

"I have spent more than half of my life in public service, and in that period I never have had an inspiration which did not embrace the welfare of the wage-earners of the country. I never advocated a measure or gave a vote in the national House of Representatives that did not, in my opinion, tend to alleviate American manhood and womanhood, and I stand unalterably opposed to the suggestion that in a country like ours, one part of the country should be arrayed against another and the poor man should be made to feel his poverty by singling him out and separating him from the rest of the community. I stand unalterably against the suggestion that the poor man should be made to feel his poverty by singling him out and separating him from the rest of the community. I stand unalterably against the suggestion that the poor man should be made to feel his poverty by singling him out and separating him from the rest of the community."

A PRINCESS'S MARRIAGE.

Helene of Montenegro Arrives at Bari—Novel Decorations.
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.
BARI (Italy), Oct. 21.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The Italian royal yacht Savoy, having on board Princess Helene of Montenegro, her betrothed husband, the Crown Prince of Naples, and members of the princely family of Montenegro, who are to be present at the marriage, arrived here today, escorted by a squadron of Italian warships. The royal yacht experienced bad weather crossing the Atlantic, and nearly all the travelers were seasick. The Prince and Princess were warmly greeted on landing by the vast concourse of Anatolians and others who had arrived in town, crowding it to the utmost capacity. Local attempts at decoration were universal, but ludicrous. They were made in response to the following municipal edict, which was posted on the walls of the principal thoroughfares: "Citizens of Bari: It is your duty to clean the streets of all unseemly mud. Used and tattered washing linen must be taken away from the windows. Little children must no longer run naked in the streets. Goats, cows, hens and drunken men must be kept at a proper distance. No dust bins, for three weeks, will be emptied in the streets. Licensed coachmen are forbidden to wear garish liveries, and are advised to borrow disused police uniforms. Let these things be done, and our citizens will prove themselves worthy of their ancestors, and our city will be duly garnished for the greeting of her royal bride."

The Prince of Naples remained on the Savoy, but the Princess Helene, escorted by the Duke of Genoa, the representative of King Humbert, landed at 1 o'clock. A procession of forty-one carriages, with soldiers lining the route, proceeded in a dismal rain through the enthusiastic crowds to the church of St. Nicholas. The Princess was met at the church by the clergy, with great ceremony. The Princess Helene, escorted by the Duke of Genoa, the representative of King Humbert, landed at 1 o'clock. FOUL MURDER.

Hamlin J. Andrus Killed at Yonkers.

Dynamite Bomb Exploded in His Private Office.

The Factory Building Shaken by the Explosion.

Startling Information Received by the Police—The Dead Man's Millionaire Brother May Have Been the Intended Victim.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Hamlin J. Andrus, secretary of the Arlington Chemical Works, located in Palisade avenue, Yonkers, was instantly killed this morning by a dynamite bomb, which, the police think, was placed there for the purpose of destroying life and property. There is a deep air of mystery about the entire affair, and one particularly sensational rumor is afloat. The body of the victim was frightfully mangled by the explosion, and death must have come instantly.

Hamlin Andrus was a man of wealth, and he lived in Yonkers in handsome style with his family. He left home in company with his son Herman, aged 20 years, a little before 8 o'clock this morning, and they went to the factory together. As was his custom, the young man opened the safe and got out the books, after which young Andrus went from the office to the factory. The office is a one-story structure, and stands detached from the factory proper. The room used by Andrus, in the office building, was separated by a thin board partition from the part occupied by the clerks of the concern.

It was a few minutes after 8 o'clock when the explosion occurred. It shook the factory building, and was accompanied by the sound of crashing glass, and the sight of smoke. A rush was made by the factory employees to the office. They were headed by young Andrus. He found the door of that portion of the office building occupied by his father, covered with glass, mortar and broken furniture. In one corner of the room he saw the bleeding and mangled body of his father, partly covered with the debris. It was in a terribly mangled condition.

Included in the flesh of the dead man were found several pieces of cast iron. Other pieces, corresponding to these, were found in the office. They were carefully placed together, and although all of the pieces were not found, the fact was enough to show that the bomb or machine that exploded was a piece of cast-iron pipe about six inches in length by one and a half inches in diameter. Fastened to either end of this piece of pipe was a cap which was screwed on. The odor and smoke indicated that the explosive was either dynamite or giant powder.

Information of a startling character was received by the police which may aid in the solution of the mystery. It was to the effect that the bomb was intended for John F. Andrus, brother of the dead man, several times a millionaire. John F. Andrus did not appear at the office of the chemical company this morning as was his custom.

On learning of the explosion and the death of his brother, he hurried to the police station and contacted with Capt. McGuire. To the captain he said that the explosion might have been the work of Anarchists, and offered an explanation for his belief. About three weeks ago, he said, he was walking along Wall street in New York when he was accosted by a rather seedy-looking individual who took him by the arm and said:

"Mr. Andrus, you are a very wealthy man. You have too much money, and I covet one of the number of people who believe that you ought to distribute at least one-third of what you have among the poor. You will either do this or there will be a way found of compelling you to do so." Andrus, according to his story, paid little attention to the man at the time.

Up to the present time no arrests have been made. The police were informed that Hamlin Andrus was in the habit of experimenting with explosive chemicals, and several tubes similar to that by which Andrus was killed were sent to the police station by an unknown man who said he had made tubes of that nature for Andrus. The police are looking for that unknown man. This story, however, is not believed by the dead man's relatives or friends, who declare that he has never engaged in such experiments or shown any interest in them.

The theory is that a bomb was placed in a box under Andrus's desk, and that it was exploded when he went there. No one was in his office yesterday, so far as known, but the cleaner, and no one was looking for that unknown man to the buildings besides three reliable people who apparently knew nothing about the explosion.

Andrus was a director of the Citizens' National Bank of Yonkers, and a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He was a public-spirited citizen, and was always identified closely in all public matters that tended to the welfare of the people and the place.

MORRISON A BLTER

HE CANNOT STOMACH BRYAN OR THE CHICAGO PLATFORM.

The Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission Declares Against Free Silver.

HIS DEFLECTION IS IMPORTANT.

WAS A PROMINENT CANDIDATE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

F. S. Norton Urges the People's Party to Forget its Grievances and Vote for Bryan-Tor of the Popocrat-Tour.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Hon. William R. Morrison, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, for years a member of Congress and a lifelong Democrat, has today declared against the Chicago platform and nominees. His statement is in the hands of Chairman Williamson at the Palmer and Buckner headquarters. It is a flat-footed declaration against free silver, William R. Morrison and the administration of Gov. Altgeld.

Up to the present Morrison has maintained silence. It has been known there was personal enmity between himself and Altgeld, but he was supposed to lean in his sympathy toward free silver. His declaration in favor of the gold standard and against Gov. Altgeld is regarded as the most important incident in the State campaign.

Morrison's political standing has been high in the Democratic party of the East. He has been many times mentioned for President, and his name was prominently before the famous Chicago convention at which Bryan was nominated. He was once the Vice-Presidential candidate for the Vice-Presidential nomination, and had it not been for the persistence of Gov. Altgeld, might have secured it, though his non-committal attitude laid him open to the charge at the convention that he was lukewarm, and not a suitable man to stand on the platform which had been adopted.

A BREAK IN GEORGIA.

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 21.—A bombshell was exploded in political circles here today by the making public of a letter from the President of the Populist party to Governor Bryan, withdrawing his name from the ticket and pledging his support to McKinley. Dr. Fulton was at one time a member of Congress from the Seventh District and has long been conspicuous in Georgia politics. His letter was received by many as indicating there will be a general defection to McKinley from the Populist ranks in Georgia on account of the treatment of the Populist party for fusion at the hands of the Democratic State Committee.

F. S. NORTON'S ADVICE.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—Senator Butler today received a letter from F. S. Norton of Illinois, the favorite candidate of the "Middle-of-the-Road" Populists for the Presidential nomination at the St. Louis convention, announcing his support of Bryan and advising the Populists everywhere to assist in Bryan's election. Norton advises the Populists to forget for a time any unjust treatment from the Democrats, and postpone a settlement of minor differences until after the election.

"If," he said, "success is assured, the Populist party cannot be denied the glory of victory, whether Bryan is a Populist or not. It is better to have certain to see every enemy of reformers encountered during the last twenty years we find today among Bryan's bitterest and most determined opponents. If they are his enemies, he must be our friend. His success is their defeat. Their defeat is our victory."

Norton's letter also says: "However much Populists may have differed at St. Louis as to the correct policy to adopt, however much they may still believe that mistakes were made under existing circumstances, there is only one course to pursue, and that is to loyally and earnestly support Mr. Bryan—not so much for the sake of elevating him to the Presidency as for the purpose of securing the best and most appropriate and most expressly termed Mark Hanna Republicanism."

"Although some of us may regret certain fusion arrangements which have been made, it is a noticeable fact that no one man in the United States is so troubled about the fusion of the Republican campaign. I believe that the Republican cause has never realized before how highly Republicans have honored and respected the Populist party. I believe that the Democrats, if any consolation is needed, however, for the loss of Republican esteem, it may be found in the fact that Messrs. Cleveland, Carlisle and Palmer have become the legates thereof."

Norton, in concluding his letter, refers to the Populist party as the members of the Populist party that its separate existence and the advancement of some of its principles, other than that of fusion, should be endangered by fusion, saying:

"Let us not be unnecessarily alarmed about the fusion of the Populist party. It has passed the danger-point. It is capable of taking care of itself under any and all circumstances. Treason cannot be proved by the fact that it is not out; infidels cannot destroy it; defeat cannot demoralize it; its opponents, however powerful and crafty, cannot crush it; the gates of hell cannot prevail against it."

"For twenty years, although subjected to all the dangerous pitfalls, perils and quagmires incident to the development of a new party, it has grown to be the greatest factor in the arena of American politics today, and if elected, I believe that Mr. Bryan will not be slow to recognize this fact, and that he will soon learn to rely upon the counsel and support of the new party which has revolutionized the politics of the country, forced to the front new vital issues and principles, and possible for the people, instead of office-seekers and politicians, to place a champion of progressive ideas at the head of the government. I believe that the Populists prelate the fact that we have placed in the hollow of his hand, not only the unselfish hopes and patriotic aspirations of the Populist party, but the most sacred cause that was ever entrusted to living man, and that he will not betray the trust."

"In conclusion, permit me to say that if my twenty years' work entitles me to the confidence of my co-workers, let me ask them to lay aside every other consideration and help elect Mr. Bryan, not for his sake, but for the sake of the principles which we all hold dear and sacred. If success is achieved, the Populist party can never be denied the glory of the victory. If defeat awaits us, let there be no Populist arrows held either in his breast or in his back. Let the responsibility rest upon other shoulders than our own."

THREE ALTERNATIVES.

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 21.—The sub-

committee appointed by the Populist Central Committee to take final action on the electoral situation deferred their meeting until tonight. The postponement, it was understood, was to wait the result of a conference between Populist Committeemen Washburn and Democratic Chairman Jones at Chicago today.

At this conference, it was understood here, Mr. Washburn was to submit to Senator Jones three alternative propositions. It is impossible to get any information as to the nature of these propositions further than this, that they look to a general arrangement for fusion, and as a side note, such arrangements it is required that Watson should have the electoral vote of Georgia. No arrangement which does not include this will be entertained by the Populists.

WATSON MOVING.

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Oct. 21.—Hon. Thomas E. Watson reached here on the 2:30 o'clock Atlanta train. He came alone and was met at the depot by Dr. G. B. Crowe, Populist candidate for Congress in this district. Judge White of Greenville and several other Populists met him together with J. W. Sibley, formerly of Augusta, Ga., at whose home Watson is staying.

Watson is expected to aid Dr. Crowe and Congressman Howard in their candidacy for Congress. He goes to Camden to speak in Howard's district tomorrow, and from there will go to Nashville.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON

Greeted by an Imposing Demonstration at Albany, Ind.

ALBANY (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Ex-President Harrison, coming today was the signal for a most imposing Republican demonstration. He arrived at 2 o'clock and spoke to an enthusiastic crowd of at least ten thousand people.

BRYAN A QUACK.

NEW LEANING, Oct. 21.—Booming cannon and shrieking whistles added to the noise made by the cheering crowds. Gen. Harrison spoke for thirty-five minutes, and severely criticized the great number of workingmen of New Albany, who have suffered greatly by the suspension of the Panama and Oceanic steamship line.

He denounced Bryan as a quack, who was prescribing a new dose for the sick country, brought to a pitiable condition by the tariff legislation. He advised that since his hearers could date all their troubles back to 1892, the only recourse was to cast their votes for the candidate of the Republican party.

Conditions that prevailed prior to that time. After the speech Gen. Harrison departed on a north-bound special train.

SMALL, BUT EARNEST.

SALEM (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Gen. Harrison's first stop after leaving New Albany was at Borden, where several hundred persons crowded around the platform and listened to him. A small, but enthusiastic meeting was held.

EX-GOV. FLOWER'S TOUR.

MADE ELEVEN SPEECHES.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Gen. Harrison arrived at his home in Indianapolis tonight at 7:45 o'clock. Leaving New Albany at 10 o'clock this morning, he made eleven speeches before reaching Indianapolis. There were notable gatherings at Salem, Orleans, Bedford and Bloomington. At Salem he said, in part:

"Mr. Bryan proposes to abandon the money system we have now and to introduce the free coinage of silver. When a change is proposed, the first thing you want to do is to ascertain what the present conditions are, and then how they are to be changed. The present conditions are that we have a gold and silver money. We are using both gold and silver as money, about $400,000,000 of silver and about $600,000,000 of paper money, based upon gold and silver coin. Every silver dollar and every paper dollar is maintained on an equality with gold. You don't stop to look at it; you take it for granted. It is a fact further than to see whether it is genuine. If it is not a counterfeit, it goes, and it goes for 100 cents on the dollar—paper money, gold and silver money. The Democrats say that this is practically the gold standard, and so it is; and they say they want a double standard."

"Now, I ask you to bear with me while I speak on this subject of standards. A standard is a measure. You have a standard yardstick, but you have no standard of value. They are measures, and just so the standard dollar is a measure. The others are measures of quantity or length. This is never realized before how highly Republicans have honored and respected the Populist party. I believe that the Democrats, if any consolation is needed, however, for the loss of Republican esteem, it may be found in the fact that Messrs. Cleveland, Carlisle and Palmer have become the legates thereof."

Norton, in concluding his letter, refers to the Populist party as the members of the Populist party that its separate existence and the advancement of some of its principles, other than that of fusion, should be endangered by fusion, saying:

Watson is expected to aid Dr. Crowe and Congressman Howard in their candidacy for Congress. He goes to Camden to speak in Howard's district tomorrow, and from there will go to Nashville.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON

Greeted by an Imposing Demonstration at Albany, Ind.

ALBANY (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Ex-President Harrison, coming today was the signal for a most imposing Republican demonstration. He arrived at 2 o'clock and spoke to an enthusiastic crowd of at least ten thousand people.

BRYAN A QUACK.

NEW LEANING, Oct. 21.—Booming cannon and shrieking whistles added to the noise made by the cheering crowds. Gen. Harrison spoke for thirty-five minutes, and severely criticized the great number of workingmen of New Albany, who have suffered greatly by the suspension of the Panama and Oceanic steamship line.

He denounced Bryan as a quack, who was prescribing a new dose for the sick country, brought to a pitiable condition by the tariff legislation. He advised that since his hearers could date all their troubles back to 1892, the only recourse was to cast their votes for the candidate of the Republican party.

Conditions that prevailed prior to that time. After the speech Gen. Harrison departed on a north-bound special train.

SMALL, BUT EARNEST.

SALEM (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Gen. Harrison's first stop after leaving New Albany was at Borden, where several hundred persons crowded around the platform and listened to him. A small, but enthusiastic meeting was held.

EX-GOV. FLOWER'S TOUR.

MADE ELEVEN SPEECHES.

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Oct. 21.—Gen. Harrison arrived at his home in Indianapolis tonight at 7:45 o'clock. Leaving New Albany at 10 o'clock this morning, he made eleven speeches before reaching Indianapolis. There were notable gatherings at Salem, Orleans, Bedford and Bloomington. At Salem he said, in part:

"Mr. Bryan proposes to abandon the money system we have now and to introduce the free coinage of silver. When a change is proposed, the first thing you want to do is to ascertain what the present conditions are, and then how they are to be changed. The present conditions are that we have a gold and silver money. We are using both gold and silver as money, about $400,000,000 of silver and about $600,000,000 of paper money, based upon gold and silver coin. Every silver dollar and every paper dollar is maintained on an equality with gold. You don't stop to look at it; you take it for granted. It is a fact further than to see whether it is genuine. If it is not a counterfeit, it goes, and it goes for 100 cents on the dollar—paper money, gold and silver money. The Democrats say that this is practically the gold standard, and so it is; and they say they want a double standard."

"Now, I ask you to bear with me while I speak on this subject of standards. A standard is a measure. You have a standard yardstick, but you have no standard of value. They are measures, and just so the standard dollar is a measure. The others are measures of quantity or length. This is never realized before how highly Republicans have honored and respected the Populist party. I believe that the Democrats, if any consolation is needed, however, for the loss of Republican esteem, it may be found in the fact that Messrs. Cleveland, Carlisle and Palmer have become the legates thereof."

Norton, in concluding his letter, refers to the Populist party as the members of the Populist party that its separate existence and the advancement of some of its principles, other than that of fusion, should be endangered by fusion, saying:

"Let us not be unnecessarily alarmed about the fusion of the Populist party. It has passed the danger-point. It is capable of taking care of itself under any and all circumstances. Treason cannot be proved by the fact that it is not out; infidels cannot destroy it; defeat cannot demoralize it; its opponents, however powerful and crafty, cannot crush it; the gates of hell cannot prevail against it."

"For twenty years, although subjected to all the dangerous pitfalls, perils and quagmires incident to the development of a new party, it has grown to be the greatest factor in the arena of American politics today, and if elected, I believe that Mr. Bryan will not be slow to recognize this fact, and that he will soon learn to rely upon the counsel and support of the new party which has revolutionized the politics of the country, forced to the front new vital issues and principles, and possible for the people, instead of office-seekers and politicians, to place a champion of progressive ideas at the head of the government. I believe that the Populists prelate the fact that we have placed in the hollow of his hand, not only the unselfish hopes and patriotic aspirations of the Populist party, but the most sacred cause that was ever entrusted to living man, and that he will not betray the trust."

"In conclusion, permit me to say that if my twenty years' work entitles me to the confidence of my co-workers, let me ask them to lay aside every other consideration and help elect Mr. Bryan, not for his sake, but for the sake of the principles which we all hold dear and sacred. If success is achieved, the Populist party can never be denied the glory of the victory. If defeat awaits us, let there be no Populist arrows held either in his breast or in his back. Let the responsibility rest upon other shoulders than our own."

THREE ALTERNATIVES.

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 21.—The sub-

committee appointed by the Populist Central Committee to take final action on the electoral situation deferred their meeting until tonight. The postponement, it was understood, was to wait the result of a conference between Populist Committeemen Washburn and Democratic Chairman Jones at Chicago today.

At this conference, it was understood here, Mr. Washburn was to submit to Senator Jones three alternative propositions. It is impossible to get any information as to the nature of these propositions further than this, that they look to a general arrangement for fusion, and as a side note, such arrangements it is required that Watson should have the electoral vote of Georgia. No arrangement which does not include this will be entertained by the Populists.

WATSON MOVING.

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Oct. 21.—Hon. Thomas E. Watson reached here on the 2:30 o'clock Atlanta train. He came alone and was met at the depot by Dr. G. B. Crowe, Populist candidate for Congress in this district. Judge White of Greenville and several other Populists met him together with J. W. Sibley, formerly of Augusta, Ga., at whose home Watson is staying.

Watson is expected to aid Dr. Crowe and Congressman Howard in their candidacy for Congress. He goes to Camden to speak in Howard's district tomorrow, and from there will go to Nashville.

CALIFORNIA'S NATIONAL GUARD.

"Dr." Castle's Populist fling at the citizen-soldier of the State should not be suffered to pass unrebuked. The National Guard of today are the logical and legitimate successors of the intelligent and brave young men of California who, at the outbreak of the civil war, left lucrative employment to enter the ranks of the volunteers and fight for the good old flag.

Then there was the "California Hundred," composed of 100 young men, the very flower of California's youth, who made the voyage via Panama to fight in Virginia, and of whom a little handful of gray-haired veterans is now left.

The same unselfish spirit of loyalty to the old flag of Fort McHenry, where "The rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air, Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there."

Yet lives to quicken the steps and serve the arms of the descendants of the brave men of '61. Most of the loyal souls who rallied to the call for aid, thirty-five years ago, have answered the final roll-call of the Great Commander who rules the universe and rewards valor on earth with peace in the land beyond the stars.

"On Fame's eternal camping-ground Their silent tents are spread, And Glory guards, with solemn round, The bivouac of the dead."

Their sons shall emulate the rude virtues of the heroic men who rallied at the call of the immortal Lincoln to draw the sword and bear aloft the flag that was consecrated by memories of Washington, Stark, Sumter, Jackson and Croghan. California need have no fear of her young citizen-soldier. They are firm of purpose and steadfast of faith. Properly led, they have not always been, they shall live to be an honor and a credit to the State, when Castle, that petty politician and exponent of a party conceived in malice and born in bigotry, who seeks to revile them, shall have been swept by the ballots of intelligent voters into the obscurity he so richly deserves.

"We wish for all mankind, for all the nations and peoples of the earth, the beneficence of our system of government and the opportunities which it presents. We bid them level their conditions up to ours; we will not level ours down to theirs. We will remove all restrictions from international trade as we have removed all restrictions from interstate trade whenever they have raised their labor and their conditions to our standard."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"To annul the use of either of the metals as money is to abridge the quantity of circulating medium, and is liable to all the objections which arise from a comparison of the benefits of a full, with the evils of a scanty, circulation."—(ALEXANDER HAMILTON, 1791.)

"The foreign producer is not entitled to equality with us in our markets. He pays no taxes. He is not amenable to our laws. He performs no civil or military duties for us. He is exempt from state, county and municipal taxes. He contributes nothing primarily to the support of government or its progress or prosperity. Upon what principle, I pray you, should he enjoy equal privileges and profits in our markets with our producers, our laborers, our taxpayers?"—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"Men will no longer follow party when it leads away from business success and prosperity; when its policies cripple our industries and the earning power of labor. They will not follow a party whose policies imperil our financial integrity and the honor of the country."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"If there is any one thing which should be free from speculation and speculation it is the money of a country. It ought never to be the subject of mere partisan contention. When we part with our labor, our products or our property, we should receive in return money which is as stable and unchanging in value as the ingenuity of honest men can make it. Debasement of the currency means destruction of values."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"The employment of our mints for the coinage of the silver of the world would not bring the necessities and comforts of life back to one people. This will only come with the employment of the masses, and such employment is certain to follow the re-establishment of a wise protective policy which shall encourage manufacturing at home. Protection has lost none of its virtues and importance."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"Every attack upon the public faith and every suggestion of the repudiation of debts, public or private, must be rebuked by all men who believe that honesty is the best policy, or who love their country and would preserve unsullied our national honor."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

"I again remind you of the 'war Democrats' during the civil war. Holding in abeyance doctrines they had most cherished, they boldly supported Abraham Lincoln to save the country. I appeal to you, and through you to all thinking Democrats, now to support William McKinley for the same reason."—(ANDREW D. WHITE.)

It is better to open the mills of the United States to the labor of America than to open the mints of the United States to the silver of the world."—(WILLIAM MCKINLEY.)

REAL WEALTH.

The amount of "real wealth" in this country is enormous. Mulhall, the great statistician, says, in his masterly article on the United States, that such riches "have never been known in the progress of the world;" that even leaving cities entirely out of question, the United States is today "the richest, most prosperous country the world has ever seen."

Wealth is defined, "an abundance of worldly goods"—what an excellent word is "goods,"—and of goods we have everything in abundance. Fruit falls to the ground ungathered, and its ripe sweetness melts back into our Mother Earth; our grain is speeding over the seas to feed friend and foe; our stores are beautiful with all the rainbow-hued fabrics of modern industry. Of real wealth—"the goods" of life—we have an overabundance. Why, then, these "hard times"? "Lack of money," it is said, but money is not real wealth; it is only metal coined for traffic, or "notes exchangeable for coin." The great trouble now seems to be that we cannot get hold of enough of this money, this "metal coined for traffic," to do business with. There is just as much money as there was before "hard times" became the shibboleth of both parties; in fact, there is more, for our mints, like the brook, "go on forever." But where is it? Plenty of money exists, but confidence in one another's integrity, in the honesty of a possible administration, is lacking; and so this money is hidden in old stockings, buried under cabin floors and locked up in safe-deposit boxes.

In old times, when men lost confidence in one another or in their government, they retired with their treasures into some strong castle, pulled in the drawbridge, shot at one another through narrow loopholes and lived on short rations until confidence was restored. Now they hide their money, practice a little "light housekeeping," and wonder to one another when "hard times" will be better, "ignoring the fact that they have only to unlock their hoarded treasures and put their money into circulation to have prosperity come flying back on full-fledged wings.

With McKinley and restored confidence hard times will gradually vanish like a dream. Even now they are largely a specter, a figment of the imagination, visible as Hamlet saw his father's ghost, "in my mind's eye, Horatio."

AN ABUSED ANARCHIST.
De Laveaux, the man who "walked Spanish" out of Hazard's Pavilion, went for comfort and sympathy to the Bryanite wickup, and, according to the organ of the tribe, he reported that "a gentleman" had been evicted from the sound-money meeting for asking a civil question. He received the expected sympathy, and although he obtained it under the false pretense of being a gentleman, undoubtedly the same measure of sympathy would have been accorded him upon a statement of the fact, which is that a foul-mouthed fellow named De Laveaux was removed from the presence of respectable men and women for uttering obscenities and profanity. It is true, as was reported at the wickup, that several ladies left the pavilion in disgust, but they were, unfortunately, seated near De Laveaux and heard his indecent comments upon the speaker.

For a gentleman, De Laveaux, Nihilist of the tribe of Bryan, has a peculiar record and is uncommonly well known to the police. Nine years ago he served a term in the County Jail. He was arrested some time ago for stabbing a man in a street brawl on the Plaza. He has been arrested so many times for drunkenness and disturbing the peace that the police have ceased keeping account of them. He was arrested during the last festa, and very recently he was driven out of the park for making violent speeches.

And the organ of the "Bandarlog" says he is a gentleman who has been maltreated and abused by such ruffians as J. R. Newberry, George H. Stewart and John A. Francis. De Laveaux was not mistaken when he went to the Bryan wickup and the "Bandarlog" organ for sympathy.

VALUE OF CLEANLINESS.
For a city that enjoys a mild climate, inviting exercise in the open air almost every day in the year, Los Angeles is not so well supplied as it might be with bathing facilities. Almost every city of considerable size in the East and Europe possesses something in the shape of public swimming baths, which are either free, or available to the public at a nominal cost. There is a large amount of solid truth in the old saying that "Cleanliness is next to godliness." One of the most effective means to reform the criminal and vicious classes is to furnish them with rooms, healthy dwellings, and to provide them with the means of maintaining personal cleanliness. It has been noted that the death rate in the German army is the least in Europe, or the world, and this fact is largely attributed to the free use that is made among the German soldiers of tepid water baths. All the soldiers have their warm bath at a cost of 12 cents for each 100 persons, including the soap used.

In the large eastern cities there is now a movement to apply the same methods to children living in the dirtier and more crowded quarters. It is believed that such a measure would help more than any other means to stamp out contagious diseases. Great precautions are always taken to keep children away from school whenever there is a contagious disease in the family, but at the same time no systematic effort is made to secure absolute personal cleanliness among the children. Children who are far from cleanly in their person and and habits are too often massed together under conditions that are dangerous to teachers as well as to the children. It would be a good idea if every school building could be provided with simple appliances for bathing. Perhaps, in course of time, some liberal-minded Los Angeles capitalist will imitate Mayor Suro of San Francisco, and build a public bathhouse that will be a credit to the city.

Nature seems to be in league with the gold-bugs. Just at this critical time, when the silverite statesmen are most vehemently proclaiming that the low price of wheat and other commodities is due solely to the low price of silver bullion, the announcement comes over the ocean that the European wheat crop is short many millions of bushels, and the price of American wheat takes a sudden jump upward, while other agricultural products join in a sympathetic movement on the upgrade. But the price of silver bullion tends doggedly downward, notwithstanding the Bryanite theories and the Bryanite efforts to push it upward. A few weeks ago silver bullion was worth 68½ cents per ounce; now it is quoted at 64½ cents, while wheat has advanced from 58 to 80 cents per bushel. The tendency of wheat is still upward, and the tendency of silver is still downward, in defiance of the theories and the sequence of Bryanite statesmen. All of which is very hard on the Popocrat campaigners.

This subject is more elaborately treated elsewhere in today's Times.

A correspondent asks: (1) Did Cleveland receive a plurality of the popular vote cast in 1892? And (2) "If Bryan's majority were 2000 over McKinley, while Palmer polled 2,000,000 votes, to have a popular plurality would Bryan have to receive more votes than the combined votes of McKinley and Palmer?" Answers: (1) Cleveland received 5,551,143 votes in 1892, to 5,178,581 cast for Harrison. Cleveland therefore polled a popular plurality of 372,562 votes. (2) If Bryan should poll more votes than McKinley or Palmer—which he will not—he would have a plurality of the popular vote equal to his majority over the candidate having the next largest number of votes. If Bryan should poll 5,000,000 votes, McKinley 4,999,000 and Palmer 2,000,000, Bryan's popular plurality would be 1000, and his majority over McKinley would be the same, of course. The case supposed is impossible, but it will do as well as any for an illustration.

As a matter of courtesy the proper officials of the Sound Money League, who are preparing for the Reed demonstration, invited the local society of Sons of the Revolution to participate in the Republican parade on October 27. The invitation was couched in most courteous terms and merited a courteous reply. Holdridge O. Collins, president of the organization, has seen fit to decline the invitation on behalf of the society, in unnecessarily tart, if not positively discourteous, language. This might have been overlooked as a matter of personal bad taste. But Mr. Collins has taken pains to give out the correspondence for publication to a local Popocrat organ, thus violating the sacredness of communications not designed for the public, and committing an inexcusable act of bad faith. By his action in this matter, Collins has deliberately placed upon himself the stamp of boorishness and asininity.

Notwithstanding the current belief that the civil service of the United States was gotten up to keep poor Federal office-holders, in receipt of small salaries, from being taxed to bear the campaign expenses of the party from which they were appointed, Chairman Alfond, of the Democratic State Central Committee, is sending out circulars asking a voluntary subscription of 3 per cent. on each office-holder's salary. He incloses a type-written opinion of the "legal committee" that the civil service act does not prohibit the asking of such contributions. How much money can be obtained from such a source it is hard to say, but the fact that the Examiner's campaign fund has been over three weeks in accumulating about $2800 goes far to show the utter hopelessness of the cause.

Job xviii, 2: "How long will it be ere ye kill an end of words? How long will ye vex my soul and break me in pieces with words?" These were the utterances of a man who had lived on strong coffee boiled in alkali water, together with adobe biscuit that would give dyspepsia to an ostrich. And he broke out all over with boils and carbuncles and "risins," of every possible description. Yet Job was a patient man, even if he did use language like the above, which indicated that he was getting weary of the campaign. But suppose, for the sake of argument, that the good Lord had sent him to Los Angeles and compelled him to listen to the free-silver arguments on the sidewalks in front of the Nadeau or the Natick?

By all means, let the middle-of-the-road Populists, the "silverite Republicans," the Anarchists, the Socialists and the rag-tag-and-bobtail of all political parties turn in and vote for Bryan. Not all the rif-ruff combinations that can be made against Maj. McKinley will suffice to defeat him. Let us have the enemy massed, if possible. Their defeat will then be all the more crushing. If the enemy will stay massed until November 3, Bryan and Bryanism will be wiped out at one clean sweep.

One of the fictions that have gained some currency in this campaign—though it has not the least bearing upon existing issues—is the assertion that Abraham Lincoln was a slave-owner. It seems unnecessary to contradict so obviously false and ridiculous a statement.

THE TWELVE CENTRAL WESTERN STATES.

For McKinley, 154,532; for Bryan, 52,719. Thus stands the total vote up to date in the post-car election in the twelve Central-Western States. A grand total of 212,604 votes has been counted, and the percentages of the respective candidates closely follow the ratio ascertained on the first day of the count. This fact, together with the great number of votes cast by the Bryanites—ten times that cast by the adherents of Palmer and Levering combined—are a sufficient answer to the claim of the cheap-metal newspapers that the Bryanites did not vote in the Chicago Record's election because of the alleged fact that the labor demagogues and National Democratic Committee had ordered them not to take part in it, and it is hardly to be doubted that this claim would never have been advanced had the returns indicated otherwise than they do—the great strength of Maj. McKinley in Kentucky, Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, Kansas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois.

Kentucky, with six more counties heard from, shows an apparent gain of 28 votes for Bryan as compared with the count printed in these columns yesterday. This is virtually a gain of two points for McKinley, as will be seen by comparing the tables printed below with those of yesterday. In Missouri McKinley has also gained two points in the percentage of his vote to the whole vote counted, though Bryan has 263 more ballots than he. These are the only States where the Popocrat candidate has a lead.

Minnesota's vote is nearly 4 to 1 for McKinley; South Dakota's, more than 2 to 1; North Dakota's, over 3 to 1; Kansas's, nearly 2 to 1; Wisconsin's, over 4 to 1; Michigan's, over 3 to 1; Nebraska's, more than 2 to 1; Indiana's, nearly 3 to 1; Iowa's, nearly 3 to 1, and Illinois's, more than 4 to 1 for sound money. Chicago and Cicero suburb, which might be expected to furnish a better showing for Bryanism, gave 13,924 to the Boy Orator, as against 56,383 for the Republican leader. The table showing the gain of the respective candidates over the votes cast in 1892 also furnishes some suggestive reading when the total vote is taken into consideration.

Venezuela Secures German Capital.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Advices have been received by Minister Andrade at Venezuela that the commission sent by the Venezuelan government to Germany returned, after accomplishing the most satisfactory arrangements, which bring about a close identity of interests between the two countries. The main features of the arrangements are a loan of $10,000,000 German capital to the Venezuelan government and the establishment of a German bank with a large capital at Caracas. The president of the company making the loan is Krupp, of the famous gun works at Essen. The loan is the result of German investments made in Venezuela in recent years.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

CHANGE OF BILL. Tonight is Athlete Club night at the Los Angeles Theater, in which the knights and ladies of the wheel do honor to the knights and ladies of the stage. Wheelman's night at eastern theaters is quite the fad, and special arrangements are made for guarding wheels when the clubs attend in a body. The Frawleys have made many friends while in the city and a full house will doubtless greet them tonight. The play is one of their best efforts, "The Highest Bidder," and will only be repeated once. This is the Frawleys' last week, their engagement closing on Saturday evening.

Robert's spectacular production of "Faust" is to be the attraction for one week at the Burbank Theater, commencing tonight. This will be followed by the famous romantic drama, "Don Caesar de Bazan."

PRONOUNCED TENDENCY.

Albert Newson Has a Likely Matrimonial Venture.
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.
ST. LOUIS (Mo.), Oct. 21.—Albert Newson is an Englishman with a most pronounced tendency to enter the uncertain state of matrimony. Four times he has ventured in the role of a husband, and court records show no divorce proceedings against him. All four of his various wives are said to be alive.

One of them, who claims to be Mrs. Newson the third, applied for a warrant against Newson, charging him with bigamy. Newson, however, does not deny that he is much married. He says that his various wives told him they would not agitate him. Newson came to this city ten years ago. He was accompanied by a woman whom he introduced as his wife. Three years later, he married Lucy Stilton. Newson was not heard from again until June 20, 1893, when, under the name of Albert Roberts, he married Mary Stembell. He lived with her two years and then deserted her.

Last month Newson figured in another marriage, this time Mary Miller, a thirteen-year-old girl. The whereabouts of Mrs. Newson numbers two and one are unknown. Newson is 45 years of age.

HIS LAST DIRECTIONS.

Defunct Rambusch Asks to Be Buried Where He Fell.
FREDERICKSBURG (Va.), Oct. 21.—The defaulting banker of Juneau, Wis., shot himself in the right temple last night in this city, driving a bullet into his body was found on a bench in the National Cemetery, his hand still grasping the pistol with which the suicide was committed. He arrived here a week ago and registered at the hotel G. T. Anderson, and since then he has been visiting battlefields in the vicinity of Fredericksburg. About $100 was found on his person. Near friends at Juneau have telegraphed for the body to be forwarded there. The following note was found in his pocket: "My name is John Rambusch of Juneau, Dodge county, Wis. Wire Dr. W. E. Hallock, Juneau, Wis., also Ford E. Rambusch of Rambusch & Pettit, art decorators, Broadway, New York, and Capt. H. A. Bagger, No. 135 Ninth street, Brooklyn, N. Y., to come here and identify me in order that my poor wife may get my life insurance. Bury me here, not in Wisconsin. I have money enough to pay all expenses. Hope kind people will take pity on me and trouble I make them. Signed W. T. Rambusch."

Rambusch had no baggage save a small hand satchel.

HALL OF HISTORY.

Corner-stone Laid in the Presence of a Distinguished Throng.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The ceremonies attending the laying of the corner-stone of the Hall of History, the first to be erected of the group of buildings to comprise the American University, took place this afternoon in the presence of a large and distinguished gathering. The Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, assisted by several commanderies of Knights Templar, took a prominent part. Bishop Bowman put the stone in place, after relics and documents had been deposited in the receptacle. The introductory address was delivered by Bishop Hurst, and ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison, Bishops Wilson, Newman, McCabe, Fowler, Rev. Charles J. Fay and Rev. J. M. Buckley also delivered addresses.

The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Elsewhere in today's Times is printed an endorsement of Burr Bassell for the important and responsible office of City Engineer, by his fellow-engineers, which is especially handsome because of the fact that it comes from men who have an intelligent technical knowledge of Mr. Bassell's ability. In addition to this the candidate has other strong testimonials as to his worth, which should go far in commanding his cause to voters at the coming city election.

The yellow ribbon which is the sign that men will march for sound money next Tuesday is about the most conspicuous thing on the street for the last few days, and they will be plentiful still before Tom Reed reaches this metropolis. Already 8000 of the garish emblems have been issued to men who promise to turn out and parade, and by the time Tuesday arrives they will be so thick that the thoroughfares will look like the golden glory of a sunset in the Pacific. The day that Reed arrives will be a record-breaker for crowds.

The Tufts-Lyon team of ballplayers will leave for San Francisco this afternoon to play out the final games in the San Francisco Examiner contest, and Harvey, the pitcher against whom a protest was registered by the Alameda Aleris, will accompany the team and will pitch in both games. John Brink, president of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and "Doc" Kennedy will accompany the team as chief rooters. The car in which the players go north will be bannered and decorated and the Los Angeles promise to return from the North with the trophy in their possession, or perish, every last man of them, heroically at the home plate, or thereabouts.

The live, loyal and lovely women of the Sound Money League are hard at work to make next Saturday, "flag day," the overwhelming success that it deserves to be. These ladies are taking it upon themselves to see to it that the residences of the city are properly emblazoned and glorified with the colors of the nation, leaving the downtown sections of the city to the men. It is to be hoped that the latter will not permit the ladies to outdo them in good works. Let every merchant and shopkeeper who wants to see Maj. McKinley elected and prosperity restored to the nation, hang out the brilliant and beautiful banner of stars next Saturday. Make the day one to be remembered.

One of the pretty laws of this State provides that a railroad company can build along any country road without even going to the trouble of procuring a franchise from the supervisors. Acting under that law, the Southern Pacific claims the privilege of building on the principal thoroughfare between Colton and San Bernardino. There seems to be some misunderstanding in this State as to who owns the earth, and that should be determined by the next Legislature. If Uncle Cullis is supreme dictator it would be well for the Legislature to present him with a becoming crown; but if the people own the country, it should be the first duty of their representatives to protect their rights.

The pulpit, press, National Guardsmen and good citizens generally down San Diego way are aroused over the seditious utterances of "Dr." Castle, and over his outrageous and false statements concerning the State mill-tiamen. At the same time they are somewhat amused at the political record of this would-be Congressman. Castle's political career has been short and rather thorny. He once ran for Coroner. His fellow-townsmen turned him down. He was snubbed under an overwhelming vote. This soured the "doctor." With hatred in his heart he deserted his party. The Pops welcomed him warmly. They soothed his fever and secured his assistance by a nomination for office. The man who was rejected by Merced people as unworthy of being their Coroner, now aspires to sit on the fortunes of live people in Congress.

The Board of Supervisors has become convinced of the futility of attempting to successfully combat forest fires except through measures of financial strength and unity, and under the direction of paramount authority. The water resources of Los Angeles county lie in the watersheds of the lofty mountains and foothills of the Sierra Madre range, within the government reserve. With the object in view of securing permanent and competent protection, the board adopted a resolution at yesterday's session calling upon all municipalities, commercial organizations, agricultural and horticultural societies and associations of Los Angeles county to join in a petition to the President and the Secretary of the Interior for action looking to the protection of the reserve from forest fires in the interest of the public welfare, with respect to water for irrigation and domestic uses.

DURRANT'S APPEAL.

SUBMITTED WITHOUT BRIEFS OR ARGUMENTS.

Time for Filing Briefs Expired and Durrant's Attorneys Did not Appear When Case Was Called.

SUPREME COURT TAKES CASE.

REFUSES TO PERMIT FURTHER DELAY OR CONTINUANCE.

The Murderer of Blanche Lamont Probably Will Know by January Next What is to Happen to Him.

The Supreme Court yesterday ordered the case of Theodore Durrant, under sentence of death for murder of Blanche Lamont in 1902, for decision. Assistant Attorney-General Anderson represented the people, and there was no appearance for the defendant. At the calling of the case, on account of the absence of the attorney for defendant, the court passed it to the afternoon, at which time the Attorney-General asked the pleasure of the court regarding the filing of the briefs. Mr. Anderson made the following statement: "The transcript was filed July 29, and the time for the appellant to file his opening brief has expired; he has not secured an extension of time, and we have not pushed him. The brief is a very large one, and is in the hands of the printer, and we have been served with segments of it from time to time. I do not know when it will be printed and filed. I have instructions not to ask for a continuance to the Sacramento session, but would be willing for the court to order the cause submitted on briefs to be filed." This the court would not order, nor would it order a continuance on its own motion. The order to submit was then made.

The transcript contains nearly twenty-seven hundred pages, and the appellant's opening brief would contain several hundred pages. The effect of the order of the court is that the appellant will not be permitted to file his brief, and the court will immediately take up the consideration of the case without it. If the case had been continued, in all probability, it would again have been continued from Sacramento to San Francisco, because the appellant might have had his brief filed and the Attorney-General could not possibly have replied by that time. This would have thrown the case over to January or April of next year, and the decision would not have been given before July. The possibilities are that a decision will be arrived at by January.

THE WATER QUESTION.

Views of Two Candidates for the Council in the Fourth Ward.

The views of candidates for the City Council on the question of municipal ownership of waterworks are being canvassed with considerable interest by voters, although the city campaign is not in full blast and will not be until after the general election. The opponents of Herman Silver, candidate before the Better City Government League in the Fourth Ward, have been circulating the story that he owns stock in the water company, and consequently is opposed to any proposition not wholly in the interest of that corporation.

The facts about Mr. Silver's candidacy are that he reluctantly consented to allow his name to be used by members of the league, and, having given that consent, he also permitted citizens of the ward to place his name before the Republican convention. He was opposed at the primaries by John Vaughn's faction and was defeated, and D. P. Riley was nominated instead.

In an interview on the water question, Mr. Silver said to The Times: "I have not now, and never had, any water-company stock. I am not, and never was, interested in that corporation to the extent of a single dollar, directly or indirectly. All statements to the contrary are false. It seems to me that the season of campaign lying has opened earlier than usual. I endorse and fully agree with the resolutions on the water question adopted by the Republican City Convention, and I think those resolutions cover the ground as completely as I could cover it in a statement of my views. I have not sought a nomination, and I would prefer personally not to hold any office. I do not need an office, and I am not anxious to burden myself with work; but my neighbors have insisted upon my candidacy, and as a good citizen I do not think I have a right to refuse to take my share of responsibility and work if my fellow-citizens choose me as their representative in the Council. I am not asking a privilege. I merely agree to accept a responsibility should it be placed upon me."

The nominee of the Republican convention, D. P. Riley, is not quite certain what his views on the water question are or should be. When asked to state them, he said he was "in favor of doing what was right," and then tried to ascertain what his questioner considered right, but as the interviewers' opinions, like the flowers of spring, had nothing to do with the case, they were withheld. Mr. Riley then said: "Now, I don't think it right to do injustice to anybody; do you? No, of course not. I'm glad you agree with me, because I want to be perfectly fair. I believe in giving everybody justice, even a company, and I don't think we ought to go ahead and say this or that should be done without considering whether it is fair. Give everybody a fair show. I say, if I should be elected, I would try to do justice to all concerned, and not have any prejudice in the matter. I wouldn't want to deprive a company of its rights, and I would want to act in the interest of the people. What does The Times think about this question?"

As the purpose of the interview was not to present views to the candidate, but to obtain an expression of his opinion, the question was not answered, and Mr. Riley repeated the substance of his very praiseworthy remarks upon the general proposition of the justice of being fair and impartial. As he neatly put the case, "A man could not say more, and no honest man would say less."

The Young Men's Republican League with headquarters in the Stowell Block has a large amount of tariff and sound money literature which they offer to the ladies of the Women's Money League for distribution. Such distribution would doubtless be of advantage to the cause if the ladies see fit to avail themselves of this opportunity to do effective campaign work.

Mr. Bartlett, chairman of the Music Committee for the Reed reception, is working hard with his fellows to make the day a success. O. Stuart Taylor telephoned him yesterday that at least sixty singers will be depended upon from Pasadena. The song books to be used at the Reed reception will be given out at the rehearsal Friday evening at Bartlett's Music Hall.

BETTER CITY GOVERNMENT.
The Primary Ballots Will Be Counted Monday.

The Better City Government League has engaged Mike Hart for Monday in order to count the ballots cast in the postal primaries. The count will be conducted by a committee of thirty-six, consisting of four members from each ward, appointed by the president of the ward club. These appointments will be completed today. Only men of good standing will be selected, and they will be assisted by competent clerks.

When the count is made on Monday, the general public will be admitted to the galleries, the members of the league will be admitted to the floor and the candidates will be allowed within the space reserved for the better city.

The last of the primary ballots were mailed to members of the league yesterday.

A meeting of members of the league residing in the thirty-second precinct, Fourth Ward, was held at Hotel Figueroa last evening. Over a hundred voters were present. The evening was devoted largely to an interchange of views concerning the various candidates whose names are on the ticket.

A general desire was expressed to nominate only men of high standing and unimpeachable character. Each of the five candidates for Mayor found advocates among those present. The opinion was expressed that the Street Superintendent should be a civil engineer. No action was taken in favor of any of the candidates.

Engineers and Architects.
The regular monthly meeting of the Association of Engineers and Architects of Southern California was held in its new quarters in the Wilcox building last evening. The paper of the occasion was on the subject of "Steel Building Construction as Applied to the Pacific Coast," by Theodore Eisen, and it was listened to with great attention.

In the discussion that followed, the matter was brought out of the condition of the fireproofing of our better class of business buildings and of the need of soon remodeling our building laws to enforce higher requirements. Mr. Drake of the Wilcox Block spoke of the precautions and methods of construction in the erection of that block. Mr. Preston and President Morgan referred to their experience in the matter of cast-iron columns, and Mr. Bassett to the steel bond in concrete work. The next paper will be November 18, by James C. Drake.

ITS VALUE TO THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES.

G. J. Griffith Makes a Report to the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

WONDERFUL MINERAL DEPOSITS

IRON ORE THAT CAN BE QUARRIED LIKE STONE.

Enormous Supplies of Coal That Will Be Tributary to the Proposed Cross-country Line to Salt Lake City.

G. J. Griffith has made the following report to the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association:

In compliance with requests of members of the association I inquired into the prospects of and the present conditions surrounding the project of building a railroad from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, while on a recent business tour in Utah, and I have investigated somewhat extensively, the resources and possibilities of the State of Utah, and of the country intervening between it and California that would be tributary to such a road.

I am under obligations for much valuable information and many kindly courtesies to H. M. McCartney, C.E., of Salt Lake City, Hon. George Q. Cannon and United States Senator Frank H. Cannon, A. Campbell, Esq., of Salt Lake City, R. C. Lund of St. George, and Thomas Taylor, Esq., of Cedar City, all of whom have a thorough understanding of the railroad proposition, and a most comprehensive knowledge of that country, and who exerted themselves in affording me every facility for making an intelligent and reliable investigation.

While much has been said and written about the great resources of Southern Utah, and the benefit and profit of a railroad through it, I have not yet seen or heard any account that did full justice to the subject, and I doubt that its magnitude could be fully conceived without a personal examination, such as I have made.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company now has in operation a line of railroad from Ogden to Milford, a point in the Escalante Valley, 221 miles south of Salt Lake City, and about 600 miles from Los Angeles.

Extension of this line westward from Milford about sixteen miles to the mining town of Frisco, and thence to the center into consideration in the matter of a road to this city.

The Utah and California Railway Company is a corporation which intends to build from the terminus of the Union Pacific branch, at Milford, to Southern California, and, in pursuance of that object, has been surveyed and located a line to Los Angeles, and graded 145 miles of the Utah end of it.

The uncertain condition of financial matters caused by the war, and the work grading has suffered some deterioration, but that much was done, and is estimated by E. M. LeFrohn, C.E., of the first 115 miles south of Milford can be put into condition for receiving the rails at a cost of $40,000, the remaining thirty miles not having been located, but in all probability it would not cost any more proportionately. This company has a traffic arrangement with the Union Pacific whereby its business would be taken to all points north and east upon delivery at Milford. It has five years in which to complete and secure title to its surveyed and located line. It has surveyed and located branch lines up Coal Creek Canyon, at Cedar City, and to Kanab, a point some seventy miles south of the Union Pacific terminus, at both of which places there are valuable coal fields, and a large tract of land, about 640 acres at Iron Springs (about fifty miles south of Milford), which controls the water there; some 1,500 acres of farming land in the Escalante Valley south of Cedar City; extensive coal and iron lands, and a ten-acre block in Salt Lake City for doing business, and the latter being conditional on the building of 100 miles of road within a year. One of its most valuable properties is a large area of manganese territory, there being some twenty-six claims.

It must not be supposed that all the valuable parts of this country are owned by this company, for large as its possessions are, they form but a small portion of the whole. This line, if built, would pass through the largest tract of the United States yet untouched by a railroad, extending from Milford on the north to the Atlantic and Pacific on the south, and from the Carson and Colorado Railroad on the west to the Sevier Valley branch of the Rio Grande on the east, a territory 300 by 325 miles in area, rich in minerals, and pregnant with agricultural possibilities, besides which there would be tributary to it a immense area of country, estimated by Col. R. B. Stanton as follows:

Utah..... 200,000
Southern Nevada..... 50,000
Southern California..... 50,000
Arizona..... 50,000

Total..... 350,000

This territory is but a little less in area than the whole of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia combined, or nearly 130,000,000 acres.

This proposed road, with its connections, would make a through line from San Diego to Lithbridge on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, 1740 miles in length, and would make the distance from eastern points to Los Angeles some 400 miles less than by any other route. It would cross and make connections with the trunk lines of the Missouri River, as follows: At Los Angeles with the Southern Pacific; at Provo with the Atlantic and Pacific; at Ogden with the Rio Grande; at Helena with the Northern Pacific; at Great Falls with the Great Northern; and at Lithbridge with the Canadian Pacific. It would be an entirely new route and would open up the richest and the most fertile iron and coal fields in the world.

These deposits are situated in Iron county, in the southern part of Utah, and are tributary to the proposed line. Outcroppings of iron are seen on every hand, in that portion of the country which I visited. I was enabled to examine eight different mines or mines, belonging to one man, aside from those owned and controlled by the Utah and California Railway Company, and all other persons, and the extent of these eight claims alone is marvelous. These claims lie south of west from Cedar City, from eighteen to twenty-five miles distant, in positions easily accessible by rail.

The first visited, known as the Black

Magnetic, has been opened and worked to some extent, there being several hundred tons of ore ready for transportation. It lies on a hillside, 6100 feet above sea level and about 200 feet above the ravine upon which a railroad track could be laid on an easy grade for the transportation of ore. About half a mile north of this there is a block of eight claims which are considered as one mine, and are known as the Soft Deposit Placers, embracing both magnetic and hematite ores. The major portion of these claims lie at elevations of from 6200 to 6400 feet, and are some 500 feet above the ravine referred to, but the largest of the magnetic claims among these is at least 7000 feet above the sea and 1000 feet above the ravine. A tunnel has been made in this claim about 250 feet long, in which a body of excellent ore was developed.

About three-quarters of a mile southwest from the first mine inspected is a claim called the Red Metal mine. It is on the point of a spur of the mountains at an altitude of 6320 feet and about 1000 feet above the open level, and is not to be opened until such time as it could be transported without trouble. The surface shows a great outcropping of specular ore, and millions of tons being in sight and every indication pointing to a great depth of the deposit. Adjoining this is another claim about 1500 feet above the sea level, and is known as the Duncans No. 1. It lies about three miles west of north from the first mine, in a ravine leading out to the Iron City Valley. Its ore is a large body and could be easily transported by way of the ravine and the valley is most advantageous.

A short distance north of this claim four claims known as the Duncans Placers, containing eighty acres of magnetic ore, which can be handled easily by the same means as the western side by a cañon leading to the same valley.

About two miles northeast from the Duncans No. 1, and a half mile east from the Black Magnetic, (the first mine named) is a mine known as the Chesapeake. It is a high ridge of iron ore, and is situated at an elevation of 6720 feet above sea-level and about 400 feet above the ravine in which the Duncans No. 1 is situated. It is claimed and that by the Mountain Peak, both of these latter being in the same body of land, and possessing the same transportation facilities.

About one mile east of south from the Chesapeake and the same distance north from the Duncans No. 1, is a deposit of iron ore which is probably the greatest in the world. It is known as the Blowing Rock mine, and consists of a high ridge of iron ore, and is situated at an elevation of 6720 feet above sea-level and about 400 feet above the ravine in which the Duncans No. 1 is situated. It is claimed and that by the Mountain Peak, both of these latter being in the same body of land, and possessing the same transportation facilities.

"JONES, STEWART & CO."

THAT'S THE NAME GIVEN THE SILVER MONOPOLY.

An interesting sketch of Thompson, the silver-maker, a typical American workingman, is discussed in the present financial issue.

(Baltimore Sun.) William H. O. Thompson, or "Billy Thompson," the silver-maker, has been attracting much attention during the past week by his practical, straight-out-from-the-shoulder speeches in favor of an honest dollar.

Mr. Thompson's method is to talk directly on the dangers which he conceives free silver will have for the workingman, and it is, perhaps, for this reason that he has found so much favor among the mechanics and laboring men who have listened to him.

He chatted yesterday with a reporter of the Sun who had called at his home, No. 321 South Durham street. As he talked in opposition to free silver with a vocabulary characteristic of the man, his eyes looked out searchingly from deep-set recesses behind a pair of spectacles. His gray hair was brushed back from his brow in wavy lengths and an iron-gray mustache drooped over a way which hid some of the firm lines of his mouth. His face is thin, his forehead wrinkled, his cheeks furrowed, and his whole appearance is that of the typical American laboring man somewhat past middle age. All his life of 33 years has been spent as a machinist and for thirty years in that branch of the trade engaged in making boilers. At present he is employed by the E. J. Condit Company.

"THIS BRYAN SNAP."

"I don't deny," said he, "that I was at first attracted by this man Bryan and what he said, but three months have gone by since he was put up and I have been reading and thinking and listening to the people who have studied this thing for years and I can't see how this Bryan snap is going to work anything but harm to the country, and how it is going to do any good at all to the workingman."

"As far as I can see, it's just one monopoly fighting another. And if the silver crowd gets on top, there will be another money power in course of time, you mark my words."

A SCAB DOLLAR.

"The government stands behind the present silver dollar with a gold dollar, and it gets the profit that is to be made on coining the silver into that dollar. But when this 'scab' dollar comes along, Jones, Stewart & Co. will be the people that will pocket the profit. The only difference will be that the government don't own anything in that dollar and don't lock anything up to guarantee that that dollar will be worth 100 cents."

"MR. SILVER-MINE OWNER."

"When Mr. Silver-Mine Owner gets his fifty-three cents' worth of silver stamped into one hundred for him he ain't going to give it free to Mr. Farmer or Mr. Laborer. He's going to cart it away from the mint and keep it home for a while. It's money, and he's got it for money. But when he wants to get it into circulation he's got to do one of two things with it. He's either got to create a banking institution to get it out or give it in the hands of the money brokers, about whom he is howling so loud just now. Well, suppose that he goes to the mint and gets it's a dollar that only cost him fifty-three cents, and to get rid of it nicely he'll probably be willing to sell it to the money broker for something like an advance of twenty cents."

THE FARMER AND HIS MORTGAGE.

"Along comes the farmer who has a mortgage to pay. Government has made a law in which says that this silver money which he has changed into these dollars for eighty cents, to pay his mortgage of $1000, he'll have to give $800. In other words, he's lost his mortgage for one that will save him $200. If he did that sort of thing two or three times he'd be able to scale off the whole thing. That's my idea."

WORKINGMAN'S MARKETING.

"Now the man who employs labor is not a dishonest man, but when he gets the silver dollar in payment for what he makes, he's naturally going to pay silver dollars to his men. And the men, they'll take them, look at them and say: 'Oh, no, this dollar is the same one as we used to get. It's 'In God We Trust' on it and all the rest of the government words, and it'll buy just as much, and we don't see what all the row is raised about. But when these men go home on Saturday night and give those dollars to their old women, and the old women go out to buy things, they'll find it to be something like this: She may want a pound of twenty-five-cent coffee, but the storekeeper paid for that coffee with silver, and he's going to charge her twice as much if he pays her in silver. And so it's going to be all around. And the result will be that when Mr. Workingman's marketing's done that night, it costs him just about twice as much."

"That's my theory, that's my theory. He's getting what amounting to half as much wages. And workingmen ought to know by this time what a devil of a hard thing it is to get a dollar's worth of wages pushed up again. I have taken half a generation for labor partially organized, to gain what has been gained, and who's going to push them up if we take free silver?"

SILVER'S TOO CHEAP.

"The cause of much of this agitation, anyhow, is the fact that Mr. Silverman's product is too cheap on the market, and like labor, it's cheap. It's been driven out in many ways by aluminum and nickel. When I was a young fellow and used to go courting, the girls most always wore a silver comb in their heads, and if you put your arm around their waist you would most likely find their belt held together with a silver buckle. Today these things are made of aluminum. And the name-plates on front doors, which used to be made of silver, or at any rate silver-plated, are now plated with nickel."

ANTI-MONOPOLISTS.

"These mine-owners ought to be the most shame-faced monopolists on the face of the earth. The idea of their being anti-monopolists is ridiculous on the face of it, when you think how seventy million people are asked to vote to give seven hundred mine-owners the biggest kind of a snap in monopolies laboring men almost universally believe in the operation of the government, and what is a silver mine but a natural monopoly? The metal is placed there by God and the government ought to take it out."

ALL GABBLE.

"This idea that Jones, Stewart & Co. are doing all this to relieve the people is all gabble, and it makes me tired. The man that's got the money will make the money, and the more he's got the more he makes. All that they're going to do with free silver will be to shift the indebtedness from one class of people to the other, ruin the business of the country, and then I can't see how there's any room left for them to do good afterward. We laboring men can't afford to sacrifice the business man and the capitalist from whom we obtain our livelihood. Bryan says we will get things better with free silver, but I'm d—d if we won't starve before we get there."

CONDITION OF LABOR GOOD.

"I think that free silver will lower the condition of the workingman. I believe that the condition of the workingman at the present time is as high as it can well get. The day for fancy scales of wages is past; no boom can more than temporarily improve them, and there is any better now, it can only come by his own force, by organized labor. No political party can do it. Anything that will lower the standard of the money in use will lower the pay of the wage-earner."

"Too much competition in business and consequent cutting in contracts is partly responsible for hard times. Monopolies and trusts have injured labor's standing, but the workingman is not to be jumped at a conclusion. They told him that greenbackism would bring better times, they told him the same for Populism and now they say that silver is the way, fix upon this whole business, but I can't see it."

"These free-silver fellows tell us that the contraction of the currency since 1873 has been a disaster. Why, Lord bless you, since 1873 labor has gained 12 per cent in its average wages and has won shorter hours in many trades. We are in a better condition today than we have ever been yet."

NOT FOR POLITICIANS.

"I am one who thinks that this money question shouldn't be handled by politicians. I think there ought to be a commission of business men of standing and sense to regulate the fix upon gold and silver bills to Congress about it, irrespective of the influence of any money-furnishing, money-grabbing, money-jobbing institutions. 'I don't see how they can expect to keep gold and silver on a parity, unless by universal agreement. If I were a politician, I wouldn't touch it. But other men have tried this thing, and we ought to catch an idea or two from their failure. See my idea?"

"A NICE, FAT PROFIT."

"If we get free silver, and anybody can take fifty-three cents of silver to the mint and have it made one hundred, what's to prevent the exchange for silver of a little of the spare gold in the pockets of Rothschild and people like him? What's to prevent them from making a nice, fat profit, buying up all the spare gold in the country, and where near that, and unloading it on our government at one hundred cents. In the course of ten or fifteen years what Europe now of our own country she would certainly get hold of by that time."

BELIEF IN A COMPROMISE.

"I don't see how McKinley's election is going to settle the free-silver snap. The silver is still out there in the mint and the public won't take it for more than 53 cents. That's why they've got to keep the fight up. Personally I believe that there will be a compromise, some sort of a measure which will give a stable dollar and enlarge the currency without ruining the business world or the laboring man. The currency will be enlarged all right as soon as the gabbling is done because the money will stop hoarding the money then."

"Sound money has many laboring men back of it. In my shop, where there are about twenty-five men, at least sixteen or seventeen, and possibly twenty, will vote for an honest dollar. Other labor bodles of which I have some knowledge are about evenly divided."

POLITICS IN BOYHOOD.

Mr. Thompson's life as a machinist and his early political principles date back to early boyhood. His family were all machinists, and when he was 10 or 12 years of age he was used to the tools to make 'cores' for iron work and lathe. When he was 14 there was an exciting contest for the Presidency between Franklin Pierce and Winfield Scott, and Mr. Thompson, together with many of the boys of his native town, Paterson, N. J., took an enthusiastic share in the campaign, even if they were not voters. In 1853 he came to Baltimore and in the following year he cast his first vote for the late George William Brown for mayor. Judge Brown was the candidate of the Democrats and reform party against the Know-nothings. Twenty years later Mr. Thompson again voted for Judge Brown, when he was running for mayor as a reform candidate against the late James H. Hodges.
